After much discussion between American Modified Series officials and Jim Campbell from Charleston Speedway, it was determined that postponement of the event to be held on May 5, 2018 was necessary. Unfavorable weather conditions have already forced Charleston Speedway to cancel several events over the past month. As a result, opening night for Charleston Speedway is now scheduled for May 5, 2018. Therefore, series officials and Jim agreed to postpone the American Modified Series event to ensure the best fan and driver experience can be delivered in the future. American Modified Series officials will be working with the staff from Charleston Speedway to reschedule the event, if possible. Stay tuned to all of the social media outlets and series website for the American Modified Series for future updates.

Previously, Fayette County Speedway was scheduled to host the American Modified Series on April 7, 2018. Much to the same fate with Charleston Speedway stated above, staff from the Fayette County Speedway was also forced to postpone the event earlier this season. Due to the postponement of the Charleston Speedway event, American Modified Series officials and Fayette County Speedway were able to reschedule the event for May 5, 2018. This event will be a 30-map A-Main event paying $2,000 to win/$200 to start. Details for the May 5, 2018 event at Fayette County Speedway will be released within the next few days.
